Joel S. Hughes, Business Development Consultant & Professional Trainer, presents:

Using Your Brain to Interact in the Workplace

Each day, we collaborate with coworkers, forge new connections, and rely on teamwork in a variety of ways. Understanding both your own personality and the aspects of others can ease communication and enhance cooperation.

Using a color dynamics assessment, the trainer will demonstrate and discuss how the dynamics of personality and character are linked to success. This seminar will assist attendees in learning how to effectively working together with their colleagues in a productive manner.

Seating is limited, and lunch is provided.
Please reserve your seat by visiting
