Freeman Rowland “Rolly” Lloyd was born in Riverton, Utah on January 16, 1894. He was drafted into the US Army on May 9, 1918. After training as a waggoneer, he was sent by boat from San Francisco on the U.S.A.F. Sheridan in World War I to Vladivostok, Siberia.

From Rolly’s journal:

“During the time I was in Siberia, a dear cousin of mine back home (whom I was very fond of) died of influenza during the flu epidemic of 1918 leaving a widow and 3 small children. When I returned home I was married to my cousins’ widow.”
